

HIGHER RATES ON POSTAL SAVINGS URGED BY HOOVER

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Herbert Hoover, who testified here yesterday before the senate committee on reconstruction, declared he believed the aggregate of national savings would be stimulated if the government "stopped profiteering" and paid "something like an adequate rate of interest" to depositors.

Reports showed, he said, that profits obtained by the government in 1931, chiefly from redempt of postal savings bank funds in banks at 2 1/2 per cent interest, were $1,135,000. He added, examination of any annual postal savings bank report would show that depositors do not receive much more than one per cent interest.

Mr. Hoover declared it "would seem only justice" if the whole method of payment of interest should be re-examined so as to approximate to the rate of the profits paid to the depositors. He said the postal savings banks were established for the prime purpose of enlarging the area of national savings. He asserted the stimulation to savings was not interest return, merely the inducement of safety.

"The real question at issue," he said, "appears to me to be not only justice to depositors, but also whether the aggregate of national savings can be increased by offering a larger return on postal savings deposits, whether more savings can be pulled out of stockpiles, and whether the dollar so saved is a contribution to national welfare."

Mr. Hoover said he preferred establishment of some institution modeled after the farm loan bank rather than have mortgages on national savings. He thought the people would be willing to submit to government control of reconstruction problems, "if it took the form of a campaign of education. With recuperation abroad, he said, he saw a slackening of exports and consequent relieving of domestic conditions. He said this would not solve the immediate situation, but would help.

Cackling Chicken Costs Negro Fine

"Sho' nuff, jedge, yoh honoh. Ah didn't eat dat chicken. Et Ah'd gone into a chicken house to get my suppah. Ah'd sho have took moin' dan one," said John Galloway, negro, arrested at 4:15 a. m. Thursday for stealing a chicken. John was in city court Thursday on the charge, and even the usually sedate judge in an uproar.

"Nawwah, jedge, yoh honoh. Ah bought dis chicken fum a dago on Beale street dat mohnin. See? Ahwuz takin' mah mohnin' exco'ize. Ah'd walks ev'ry mohnin' foh mah health—wen dis dago cum up to me, an ast me of Ah didn't want a chicken. Ah said, 'Ah'd, so he sold it to me. Ah done forgot dat de officer might see me, or Ah would 'uv taken to a dahnk street. Sumpin' done tol me dat chicken would cackle on me."

"Well, John, I will fine you $5, because you sure did eat dat chicken. Is there anyone in the city you can get word to?"

"Yessuh, jedge, yoh honoh. Ah've been figgerin' how I could get some news outa dis place all mohnin'. But jedge, yoh honoh, Ah ain't got $5. Ah had one when Ah came here, but it done gone now." And John was led back to the cell he graced all night.

TORNADO KILLS ONE

KINGSTON, N. C., Sept. 24.—Sol Jackson, 29, was killed and several other persons injured by a tornado that swept portions of Pitt county yesterday.

At Winterville, a store, cotton oil mill and other buildings were damaged, while the store and dwelling of Roland Cannon, one mile from Ayden, were wrecked. Jackson was killed in the wreckage of the Cannon store.

Moving Pictures

Strand.
All traffic at the busiest corner of Los Angeles was held up for ten minutes recently while scenes for Wallace Reid's new picture, "What's Your Hurry?" at the Strand this week were filmed. The picture required the star to stall a huge truck in the midst of the traffic. The mayor of Los Angeles was persuaded to allow the traffic block to be staged on the main street of the city. Twenty cameramen "shot" the scene from skyscraper windows.

Majestic.
An entirely new episode of vamp is introduced in "Hairpins," the Thomas H. Ince Paramount-Artcraft production starring Enid Bennett, which will be shown at the Majestic theater Friday and Saturday. The part of the siren is played by Grace Morse in the role of Mrs. Kent, whose knowledge of vamping serves to bring about a change for the better in the affection of Rex Rossmore for his wife, Muriel, played by Enid Bennett.

Princess.
The sacrifices that struggling artists make for each other, their brave attempt to achieve success in the face of poverty and an unsympathetic world, and their childlike gaiety has been a favorite theme with dramatists and authors. Du Maurier's famous novel, "Fribby," was written about this appealing background, as was also Edward Peple's almost equally famous play, "The Playhouse," which has been lately produced as an unusually attractive motion picture by William D. Miller. It will be shown at the Princess Friday and Saturday.

Vivacity Returns To City Of Milan, Visitor Declares

"Milan is assuming its old beauty and gaiety," declared L. L. Parzini, olive exporter of that city, stopping at Hotel Gayoso. "During the war it was under a cloud, its beauty veiled and all its energies absorbed by the terrible world war. All the important buildings including the Gothic glory of the cathedral were swathed in bags of sand to preserve them from the onslaughts of Austrian airmen who would gladly destroy what they could not create and the world never replace."

"It was a task to cover the cathedral with its 11,000 busts and statues, but it had to be done as it proved to be so conspicuous a landmark the Austrian hordes made every effort to destroy it and it had many narrow escapes, but fortunately escaped."

"Now all the old gaiety has returned to Milan. It is a city transformed. We are having a long and elaborate season of opera at the La Scala opera house, which is one of the wonders of the world and which, also, very fortunately, escaped the destroying bomb of the vandals. The streets are filled with throngs which show all the old-time vivacity for which the Milanese are noted."

Working Men Turn To Radical Books, Chicago Man Says

"The real reading of this country is done by the men who are pleased to turn to the working class asserted Dr. J. Barton, proprietor of a large bookstore on State street, Chicago. "It is astonishing to me that avidity they devote to books. The wealthier class is reading light, fluffy froth, but the thought comes to mind that being a man of letters that toll and sweat. It is an inversion of the usual order of things."

"Some of the books in my store are 'Creative Evolution' by Bergson, 'The New Industrial Unrest' by McPherson, 'How the World Makes Its Living' by Hamilton, 'Current Economic Problems' and Link's 'Employment Psychology.' Shorter hours have given the men more opportunity for reading and they are quick to take advantage of it."

"If we were all to be a very hopeful sign. Unfortunately there never was such a demand for radical literature that there is at present, and the more radical it is the greater its popularity. There is a constant call for books and magazines that they devour and will not keep. However, there is another book store on Clark street that specializes on that sort of stuff, and the owner is reaping a harvest. The sale of books and magazines is a good criterion of the state of the nation. Judging by that we are in a grave condition. It is enough to give a lover of his country the gravest concern."

Horse Must Have Intelligent Care, Kentuckian States

"If you would have success with horses you must use horse sense and care for them as you would human beings," announced T. D. Moffet, extensive horse breeder from near Lexington, Ky., at present at Hotel Gayoso. "Give me a horse that is all run down and I'll make a fine animal out of him in three weeks' time if not too old or too far gone. A man that doesn't know how to care for his horse cuts its life in two."

A horse is a nervous and highly sensitive animal and needs to be treated accordingly. If a horse perspires and gets dust in his coat he's going to feel miserable until he gets cleaned up. Feeling miserable all the time is bound to wreck his health. That is an absolute fact. I don't care what it is.

FORTUNES IN JEWELS HELD FOR EX-RULERS

GENEVA, Sept. 24.—It is stated on reliable authority that the jewels belonging to the Romanoffs, Hapsburgs and Hohenzollerns, deposited for safety with Swiss bankers, are worth $7,000,000 pounds sterling, while the jewels sold or pawned in Switzerland since 1911 have amounted to double this sum. These totals do not include jewel transactions by former princely families of Russia, Austria-Hungary and Germany.

BANKER SENTENCED.
HAWKINSVILLE, Ga., Sept. 24.—D. T. Marshall, former president of the bank of Russia, on trial charged with having received deposits when the institution was insolvent, was found guilty and the jury recommended that he be sentenced to a misdemeanor. Marshall, former cashier, was convicted on the same charge Monday and given a similar sentence. The bank was closed two years ago.

SAYS TANLAC BUILT HER UP TO 133 POUNDS

Little Rock Woman Could Not Regain Her Strength After Operation Until She Takes Course of Tanlac.

"I have taken six bottles of Tanlac since January, and my wonderful improvement is pretty good proof that it was the right medicine for me," said Mrs. Eulalia McAdams, of 269 Maple street, Little Rock, Ark.

"For a long time I had stomach trouble and suffered beyond words to tell. For months I was in perfect agony and ate so little I was simply starving. I fell off till I weighed only 85 pounds and suffered such awful pains from the gas on my stomach that my nerves were shattered and my strength all left me. I was advised to have an operation but felt too weak and nervous to stand it."

"I began taking Tanlac in January, 1931, and in a short time the gas stopped forming and I could eat my meals with more comfort for I could digest my food with less trouble. I picked up several pounds in weight, my nerves improved and I felt much stronger."

"Then I had the operation performed, but for several months afterward I was still very weak. Again I began taking Tanlac and it has actually built me up till I now weigh a hundred and thirty-three pounds. I am now eating just anything I want without the least trouble afterward, my nerves are in perfect condition, I sleep soundly every night and have strength to do my work without getting tired."

Tanlac is sold in Memphis by the following agents: Warnock Drug company, Walser Pharmacy, Doyle-Turner Drug company, A. Renkert & Co., two stores; L. H. Kilpatrick, Washington-Purdy, Moore's Pharmacy, Tavis, Taylor, three stores; Washburn-Louis Drug company, C. O. Manning and Battler's Pharmacy. adv.

CARRIERS BACK OUSTER

DALLAS, Tex., Sept. 24.—The National Letter Carriers' association, in annual convention here, voted to ouster the action of the national officers in ousting state officers in Kansas and Oklahoma because of their connection and sympathy with the bolting faction which favored affiliation with the American Federation of Labor.

four feet of water in the engine room. It took three hours after the water was pumped out to get up a head of steam sufficient to move the engines. "It was a trying experience," said Capt. Haugen, "for seafaring men, to say nothing of the passengers. We arrived off the mouth of the Mississippi Wednesday morning, but the rain was falling so heavily that we could not navigate the passage and so cruised around in the gulf until night. The wind was still blowing but had moderated greatly."
